

David Hockney is one of the most important painters of the 20th century and is famous across the world. Born in Bradford in 1937, Hockney was one of the big artists involved in the pop art movement in the 1960s. Pop art was a style of art that was bright, full of colour.

Hockney lives in London, but owns two other homes in California. When painting in England, Hockney likes to depict the seasons and the Yorkshire landscape. In 2010, Hockney began explored digital art- using paint apps on the iPad to produce artworks. Hockney loves drawing and the mess free iPad art; the way he can utilise so many different colours and easily layer up marks to convey texture.

His most recent exhibition consisted entirely of printed iPad works that he created during lockdown.

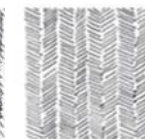

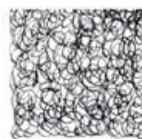

Marion Prentice

is a British artist who works across a range of media. In her lino print landscapes, she focuses on emphasising the patterns she finds most striking in the scenery she is portraying.

Sue Wademan

Textile artist New Zealand

Content: What is in the artwork

Form: How the elements of art are used

Process: How it is made

Mood: What it makes you think / feel line, tone, shape, form, colour, texture, space

landscape

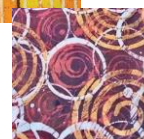

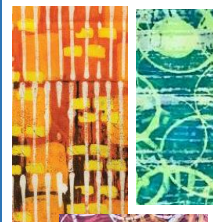

(noun)

all the visible features of an area of land, often considered in terms of their aesthetic appeal

Block printing originated in East Asia, the technique existed in China as early as the 2nd century CE. Images and text were cut into blocks of wood and printed on silk cloth.

Collagraphy is a printmaking process introduced in 1955 by Glen Alps; in which different materials are applied to a rigid base (such as paper, board or wood) to create different textural and linear effects.

Batik is an ancient technique, thought to be thousands of years old, that uses wax and dye to decorate fabric. The exact origin of batik is not known, but it is often linked to Indonesia. It is also used in other countries and continents such as the Middle East, Thailand, Africa, Malaysia, India and China.